Congo Terror Continues As U.N. Has Fete

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—With terror and anarchy spreading throughout the Congo, the United Nations mission calmly celebrated the 15th anniversary of the U.N. Charter Monday and once again called on squabbling politicians to settle their differences.

Drink-crazed soldiers and police were seen beating, robbing and stripping civilians a few hundred yards from the giant Baudouin Stadium where U.N. troops staged a colorful ceremony to honor the anniversary.

Ambassadors of the Western powers boycotted the ceremony, sending junior officials, to mark their displeasure with current U.N. policy in the Congo. Only a handful of Congolese got through the rough military checkpoints to watch the parade from almost empty stands.

A U. N. spokesman said the capital's African city was "regularly patrolled" by U.N. troops but a tour of the city disclosed not a single U.N. soldier. The U.N. troops in any case had no authority to intervene between civilians and uniformed Congolese.

For the third day in succession civilians were reported killed and injured in clashes with unruly factions of the Army and police. Both forces were clearly out of control of their officers while terrorizing the unarmed population of the capital.

U.N. officials said similar conditions were reported from the interior.

In Elisabethville, the entire government of secessionist Katanga Province boycotted a reception celebrating U.N. Day.

Not one African ministry official accepted an invitation to a reception at the home of the chief U.N. representative in Katanga, Ian Berendsen of New Zealand.

A military parade to celebrate U.N. Day in Elisabethville was canceled when the government refused to give permission for it.

Draft Call

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Selective Service Bureau Monday said the December draft call for Pennsylvania will be 527 men. The November call is for 465 men and the call last December was for 734 men.

Harmony Rings During Ike's Mexican Visit

CIUDAD ACUNA, Mexico (AP)—Presidents Eisenhower and Lopez Mateos met Monday leaving no doubt about their personal friendship and cordial relations between their countries.

Their meeting brought lively speculation over the impact of their meeting on the U.S. election. The "friendship" theme which led to the meeting at this border town where the projected international Amistad ("Friendship") Dam is to be built, was reaffirmed

Monroe's 'Great Debate' Draws Large Turnout

BY DON ALLEN
Record Staff Reporter

MONROE County's version of the "great debate"—sans Kennedy and Nixon—was held last night in the county courthouse with six attorneys and two candidates for state office as the opponents.

Sponsored by the League of Women Voters of the Stroudsburgs and billed as a "panel discussion," it attracted a near capacity audience to the main courtroom.

It opened with a three-minute talk by the opponents for Monroe County's seat in the State House of Representatives, Van D. Yetter, Democrat incumbent from Marshalls Creek, and Hanford L. Cleveland, of East Stroudsburg, a Republican who seeks to unseat Yetter.

The time limits were set by agreements of the two opposing groups with the longest talk scheduled for five minutes. Due to close polling by Mrs. Marcia DeRocco, league president, the eight speakers cumulatively ran only 22 minutes overtime.

In addition to Yetter and Cleveland, the speakers were Attys. J. Joseph McCluskey, Kennard Lewis and Russell

Mervine for the Democrats and Attys. Arlington W. Williams, Edwin Krawitz and Alex L. Bensinger for the Republicans.

First Speaker Yetter, the first speaker, cited his record during his two terms in the legislature during which he said he sponsored 46 bills, of which 25 were passed and signed into law.

"Every single one of those bills was of interest to Monroe County and the Pocono Mountains, he said. He particularly cited a bill which appropriated money for promotion of Pennsylvania as a travel state and legislation providing for construction of dams on the Delaware River and an emergency appropriation for the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority which he said "made it possible for Monroe County to locate new industries such as Heico, Trumatic and Oiljak."

Cleveland, who previously served a term as representative from this county, charged that Yetter "obviously believes in a strongly centralized national and state government."

"With this I disagree," Cleveland said. "I believe, that if left alone, the county commissioners can do an outstanding job with the affairs of Monroe County. I believe, if left alone without state or federal interference, the borough councils can do an outstanding job for their constituents. I do not believe that these things can be handled properly to the interests of all concerned when the action is dictated by Harrisburg or Washington."

Cleveland also charged that Yetter on two occasions voted in favor of a personal income tax. Yetter said he is opposed to a state wage tax.

Mervine said he considers the main issue on the national level is the man. He pointed out that Sen. John F. Kennedy was born into a wealthy family and could have been a lawyer, businessman or sportsman if he had so chosen.

Is Devoted

"Instead, he devoted his life to studying this nation and its problems," Mervine said. He lauded the "deep thinking" Kennedy has put into his plans for the future of the country. Nixon, on the other hand, Mervine said, appears to be satisfied with championing this administration.

Bensinger challenged Mervine's statements by saying the issue is not personality, but records and performances. He compared the Truman and Eisenhower administration records on national defense, foreign policy and economic growth and said most progress was made under Republican leadership.

He also lauded the Republican record in the field of social welfare and said the average worker today has 20 percent more money to spend because of less inflation and higher wages.

McCluskey reviewed the Democratic slate for state officers, calling them "distinguished men and women" whom the Democratic party "proudly presents" as candidates. He said all are committed to support the 28-plank party platform including resort development, flood control and clean streams and interstate highways.

He also reviewed the records of Yetter and U. S. Rep. Francis E. Walter, of Easton, also a candidate for reelection. McCluskey said seniority in legislatures means appointment to key committees in urging their reelection.

Krawitz charged that in the years from 1953 to 1955, Pennsylvania had a surplus of $10,000,000, but that after five months of the administration of former Gov. George M. Leader, the state had a deficit of $74,000,000 and that under present Gov. David L. Lawrence it reached $141,000,000 last year.

"Someone has to pay off that deficit—and you know who that someone will be," Krawitz said. He also reviewed his party's candidates for office, calling them highly qualified, and said the Republicans should be put into office to clean up the state's "black eye"—the Philadelphia vote fraud scandal.

Sums Up

Lewis, summing up for the Democrats, said his party was formed to offset Alexander Hamilton's "rich and well born" group which felt it had the right to govern. He said the greatest condemnation of the Eisenhower administration is that it listened only to persons in this group.

He said the Eisenhower cabinet and advisors were chosen from the ranks of big business and questioned the ability of any one group of specialists to govern adequately such a diverse country as this.

Williams, summarizing for the Republicans, called Kennedy a young prophet of doom, a Jeremiah who sees a second rate America with lost prestige.

Williams said no other nation in the world has produced what America has under the free enterprise system which Nixon favors. He said Kennedy advocates a strong central government which will strangle free enterprise.

Campaign Trails Growing Hotter As Election Nears

Reds Proposal On Arms Would Take 40 Years

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain declared Monday Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposals would delay actual disarmament for 40 years if they were carried out to the letter.

David Ormsby-Gore, British minister of state for foreign affairs, challenged the Soviet Union to spell out more concretely its position on the major issue of controls over disarmament, and to enter into new negotiations on specific issues on which there is possibility of agreement.

But the Soviet Union held fast to its position in the General Assembly's 99-nation political committee, thus strengthening speculation that the Soviet bloc would carry out its threat to walk out on the committee debate if Khrushchev's proposals do not meet complete Western acceptance.

Ormsby-Gore told the committee that Khrushchev's proposal for a disarmament treaty makes no provision for anything to be done until the last comma has been agreed upon.

Specific Areas

He declared that the Western plan to seek agreement in specific areas where this is possible despite East-West mistrust "is more realistic, more practical and less likely to deceive the hopes of mankind with high sounding phrases, incapable of translation into action."

"Think what it would mean," he added, "if before any measure of disarmament takes place an agreement must be negotiated and signed by more than 100 states which would include measures for bringing about total disarmament down to the last man and to the last gun, together with all the related verification procedures, although the effectiveness of many of these have not yet been studied."

"It is our firm and sincere belief that the strict adherence to such an approach would not bring about total disarmament in four years, but on the contrary would ensure that no disarmament took place in 40 years."

As to controls, the British delegate said the Soviet Union appeared to have made a considerable advance toward the Western position, but that "there is still a gap—how wide we do not know."

He asserted that the Soviet Union's declarations on controls did not square with proposals made by the Soviet Union in actual negotiations. He cited a proposal at the Geneva nuclear weapons test talks where the Soviet Union proposed 20 Russians and one foreign national among technicians for any one control post.

He expressed sorrow also that the Soviet Union had introduced into their proposals ideas about reorganization of the U.N. secretariat "which we all know are quite unacceptable to a large majority of U.N. members. I can only hope they will not be pressed."

But Valerian A. Zorin, in a brief reply to Ormsby-Gore, made clear the Soviet Union was not changing its stand.

He said the Soviet Union would accept any control system offered by the United States or the Western powers—but only after the signing of an international treaty on disarmament and destruction of weapons.

Nixon Hurls 'Book' During State Tour

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon declared Monday night "ill-considered proposals" by Sen. John F. Kennedy played a major part in last week's gyrations in the price of gold.

"The widespread irresponsible course the senator is marking out" in the fiscal and monetary realm has led to fears abroad over the soundness of the dollar, said Nixon in a speech here.

The Republican presidential nominee used this charge to cap a day of whistle-stopping across Pennsylvania in which he threw the book at his opponent.

Among other things he accused Kennedy of trying to exploit the religious issue with smear tactics, of making unpardonable blunders on Cuba, and of being a man who "doesn't know the situation and who says one thing today and another thing tomorrow."

"That kind of man Mr. Khrushchev will make mince-meat of," Nixon asserted at Huntingdon.

In his Pittsburgh speech the vice president said Kennedy had made many proposals which strike "at confidence in our currency."

Included in these, Nixon said, were vast spending programs which would "force huge new inflation-breeding deficit financing in peacetime or such tax increases that the economy would stagnate."

"This program of flagrant fiscal and monetary irresponsibility is giving cause for grave alarm at home about the future of the dollar," said the vice president. "It is not hard to see why it is generating alarm among people abroad who also have a great stake in the dollar."

The GOP nominee said he knew Kennedy had denied published reports that a Kennedy administration would devalue the dollar. But this does not remove fears generated by his "pending proposals," Nixon insisted.

Nixon's train tour, his first of this campaign, ran into snow and blustery weather Monday afternoon. But he said he was delighted with the size of his crowds which ran from 3,000 to 15,000 at seven stops in this pivotal state.

The vice president, speaking in several cities with high unemployment, defended President Eisenhower's veto of two Democratic-sponsored depressed areas bills.

Lynching Trees Scarce In Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—A dead militiaman was reported found hanging from a tree in the fashionable country club area of Havana Monday with a sign across his chest saying: "Please remove quickly—we need this tree for others."

Reliable diplomatic sources confirmed the incident.

Havana police made no announcement.

Kennedy Says Any Subjects Be Debated

WITH KENNEDY, in Illinois (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, in a slashing attack on Vice President Richard M. Nixon, said Monday night that Nixon's voting record bears little resemblance to the campaign promises he now is making.

It was the sharpest criticism of Nixon that the Democratic presidential candidate has yet made.

"Any resemblance between Mr. Nixon's promises for the future and his performance in the past is purely coincidental," Kennedy said in a speech in Rock Island.

Kennedy thus closed his first day of campaigning in some traditionally Republican strongholds in Illinois. He attracted good crowds all along the route, especially in Peoria and on the campus of the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana.

At Peoria Airport, several thousand persons—many of them teenagers or in their early 20s—virtually mobbed the senator.

He released a statement in Peoria answering another telegram from Nixon about a proposed fifth television debate.

Kennedy said he plans to appear for the debate prepared to answer questions on any subject, not only Cuba.

He challenged Nixon to "do the same thing."

At the Quad Cities airport, in Moline, a crowd that police estimated at about 5,000 gave Kennedy a warm, noisy welcome.

Kennedy titled his Rock Island speech "The Nixon Gap."

He cited Nixon's voting record in eight areas of legislation and compared these votes, or lack of them, with what Nixon is saying now.

He began with the "agricultural gap," then the "Nixon gap on education," followed by Nixon's votes on Social Security, public power and rural electrification, housing, labor and employment, civil rights and inflation.

In each case, Kennedy sought to show that Nixon's voting record as a congressman, senator and vice president often was diametrically opposite to promises he now is making in these fields.

In the field of Social Security, which Kennedy hammered hard all day, he said: "I believe this country can do better by its retired citizens—and we can start in November by retiring Mr. Nixon."

He also sidestepped at Nixon's claim of greater experience by saying, "no judge is impressed by the experience of a driver whose record is full of accidents."

Kennedy said in a statement in Peoria he cannot understand why Nixon "wishes to limit the debate to one subject." He said Nixon's reply to his proposal for a fifth debate "is another indication of the fact that he would rather debate with mimeograph machines and telegram than face to face."

Mrs. Wohlsen, 74, Wife Of Stroudsburg Pastor, Dies

MRS. MAUDE Edna Resh Wohlsen, 74, wife of Dr. Peter N. Wohlsen, pastor emeritus of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, died in her home at 1004 Main St., Stroudsburg, yesterday at 5:15 p.m. She had been in ill health for several months.

She was born in Lancaster, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Resh.

Mrs. Wohlsen was a graduate of Millersville State Normal School and upon graduation began to teach school in the Lutheran Orphans' Home, Germantown.

She presided over the parsonages of St. John's Lutheran Church, Quakertown; Christ Lutheran Church, Wilkes-Barre; and St. John's parsonage in Stroudsburg for 30 years.

Mrs. Wohlsen used her talents in the work of religious education in every parish her husband served, being a teacher in the local congregation for more than 25 years.

She was also active in all the women's organizations of the churches, and served as president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Wilkes-Barre Conference for three years. She also was vice president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania for two years.

Other Activities Mrs. Wohlsen also served in Red Cross work during World War I and II.

She was a member of the Eastern Star, Wilkes-Barre, and the White Shrine, Easton.

Mrs. Wohlsen is survived by her husband, at home; one son, Rev. Asa S. Wohlsen, Norris-town; two grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Grace Hokenfeld, living in California.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, with Revs. Charles H. Ruloff and William E. Dennis, secretary of the Eastern district, officiating.

Interment will be made at the convenience of the family in Greenwood Cemetery, Lancaster.

Friends and relatives may visit the church Thursday from 6 p.m. until the time of services. It is the wish of the family that persons or organizations desiring to memorialize Mrs. Wohlsen may send a gift to the building fund of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

P-K, Union To Resume Negotiations

NEGOTIATIONS will resume today between Local 397, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers union and Patterson-Kelley Co., Inc., on a labor dispute.

A five-man negotiating committee and a union representative are scheduled to meet today at 2:30 p.m. with management. Involved in the dispute are higher wages and hospitalization coverage.

The IBBSEFH representative, Russell Graham, is enroute to the Stroudsburg to attend the parley. Union headquarters are in Kansas City, Mo.

It was learned that both labor and management were optimistic that a threatened strike would not develop.

It was also learned that labor voted to go on strike by an unofficial vote of 106 in favor with 100 against striking. The vote was taken last Friday. The plant, however, is in operation while the negotiations continue.

Walter Accepting Requests

Yesterday Congressman Francis Walter (D-Easton) announced that he is accepting requests for nominations as a candidate for appointment to the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy. The Academy is located at Kings Point, L.I., N.Y., about 16 miles from New York City.

The Academy offers a four-year course leading to a license as an Officer in the U.S. Merchant Marine, a commission as Ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve and the Bachelor of Science Degree. The Sophomore year is spent as a Cadet on merchant vessels of the U.S. Merchant Marine.

Tuition, room and board, required uniform and textbooks as well as medical and dental care are furnished by the United States Government.

A candidate must be single, meet physical standards similar to those of Midshipmen, U.S. Naval Academy, must have reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday by July 1, 1961, be a high-school graduate or now in his senior year. Those selected on a competitive basis as a result of the College Entrance Examination Board's tests in March 1961, and other pertinent factors, will enter the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in August 1961.

Monroe Youth To Receive First Chevalier Degree

STEPHEN A. Luckey will receive the first Chevalier Degree to be awarded to a Monroe County youth today at special ceremonies in the Masonic Temple, Bethlehem, at 8 p.m.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Luckey, of Stroudsburg RD 3. Luckey was elected Master Councilor of the local DeMolay chapter in the spring of 1959.

While serving as Master Councilor he received recognition from the DeMolay Advisory Committee for his ritual work.

Organized, Directed
He also organized and directed the chapter's rifle club. Later he was appointed as instructor of the club members procuring ammunition, targets and arranging places to compete.

Luckey continued with the duties of the rifle club after he completed his term as Master Councilor.

He was recommended for this honor by the DeMolay Advisory Committee.

Charles W. Miller, chapter advisor, said last night, "Anyone wishing to attend the ceremony and is without transportation to Bethlehem should be at the Masonic Hall in East Stroudsburg today at 6 p.m."

Premier Khrushchev's personal assault upon Dag Hammarskjöld may have failed, but for the Soviets the battle seems only to have begun. Their latest tactic has been to attack the office of the Secretary-General as a luxury much too expensive for the United Nations to maintain.

In the U.N. budget committee, the Russian delegate indicated that other U.N. members might be willing to pay for Mr. Hammarskjöld's "illegal activities" in the Congo and Laos, but the Soviets were not.

Under discussion was the Secretary-General's appeal for an immediate part-payment of $100 million for his Congo operations. Under standard U.N. procedure, Russia would be expected to contribute 16 per cent and the United States 33 per cent.

The Soviets also want to clamp a $50 million ceiling on annual expenditures of the U.N. Secretariat, whereas the Hammarskjöld already has requested $7,433,750 for 1961. This, of course, is exclusive of Congo emergency expenses.

The budget committee, however, was given to understand the Soviets would think differently of U.N. expenses if Mr. Hammarskjöld were replaced by a three-man executive board representing the West, the Communists and the neutralists. This is the plan with which Mr. Khrushchev got nowhere in the General Assembly.

This financial holdup is as discreditable as the Soviet attack upon Mr. Hammarskjöld's performance in the Congo and Laos. His activities in those crisis become "illegal" solely because in carrying out U.N. directives, the Secretary-General also frustrated the Communists.

Mr. Hammarskjöld knows how to defend himself, as he has demonstrated before the General Assembly. But he will need continuing support, particularly from the neutralists. By this time, they should realize that those who defend the Secretary-General are also insuring the integrity and usefulness of the United Nations.

Cracking Down On Drinking Drivers

"A number of states," according to Editorial Research Reports, "are taking an increasingly dim view of the drinking driver."

One more or less typical reason is an account of a car collision on a Long Island, New York, parkway in which four persons were killed. Commendably facing in the headline a fact some papers have been wont to leave to the last paragraph, the New York Herald Tribune records, "One driver was drunk."

His intoxication was established not only by his incoherence but also by a chemical test which showed an alcohol blood content of .22 per cent. A recent New York law makes any content above .15 per cent evidence of drunkenness in the case of a driver and considers that ability to drive may be impaired at any level above .10 per cent.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

What Is Growth?

Everybody talks about growth. By growth is meant the increase in the economy of a country. Such an increase may be measured in several ways. Each form of measurement will bring a different result and therefore will lead to a different conclusion.

If we measure growth by the national income produced, it becomes important to translate the dollar realistically from nominal money to real money and the figures reached are very different — and very discouraging.

If growth is measured in terms of tonnage or in terms of measurement, the figure will be altogether different.

Again, if we compare the increase of capacity for production, say between 1917 and 1960, Soviet Russia can produce favorable figures but if we use figures showing the actual production, the United States is so far ahead of Soviet Russia that there is no comparison.

Allen Dulles, the head of the CIA, put it sharply in this paragraph: " . . . Khrushchev proposes to build up Soviet industry, the base of Soviet military power, seven-year plan which covers the period through 1965. This will still leave him well behind the United States in overall industrial production. "But Khrushchev believes that he can devote to military and world power aims a far greater percentage of his industrial production than we are likely to do. "He expects to satisfy his people with a far more modest share of the consumer goods and luxuries that have seemingly become for us so essential a part of our own much higher living standard. "Whether he will succeed in deluding his people, who today have far greater knowledge of the outside world than during Stalin's days, remains to be seen."

Our greatest growth industrially was unquestionably 1879 and 1914; nevertheless the expansions during the World Wars were enormous and were designed to meet war conditions. Subsequent to World War II, American industry was required to supply for the rebuilding of both allies and enemies.

There is no reason to assume that an industrial plant established to supply the entire world in war and in a reconstruction period after a devastating war can in competitive peace-time utilize an identical plant or increase that plant at the same speed as countries which had no plant at all or whose industries were destroyed by war.

In 1920, steel capacity in the United States amounted to 60,000,000 short tons; by 1945, steel capacity rose to 95,000,000 tons; in 1959, it was 147,000 tons. This is realistic growth in capacity. However, production fluctuates.

In 1920, we produced 46,000,000 tons; in 1945, it was 79,000,000 tons; in 1956, it was 115,000,000 tons; in 1959, it was 93,000,000 tons. In 1961, we utilized 100.9 percent of steel capacity; in 1959, only 63.3 percent.

It is only correct that by 1959, the countries which we helped to rehabilitate and others should have completed their own means of production.

The term growth, then must be related first of all to the existent plant and its utilization; secondly, to the purpose of expansion and the intended use of expanded capacity and finally whether the expansion is for war which is waste or for consumer consumption which is normal social use. Just to say that we must have growth is to say nothing clear and specific.

Our problem is not growth. It is to find the means to invest free American capital in new industries. The government takes too large a share of the individual's income for public use and thereby removes the incentive to invest in new and expanding industries.

Thus, much American capital is exported out of the country not only for the development of industry but for better and larger returns on investments abroad. When capital is exported, it means that jobs are exported — jobs but not the workers.

Therefore a social problem of prime magnitude is developed, namely, unemployment. Some say that the solution for this is to limit automation. Nonsense! Might as well go back to the donkey as a carrier instead of the motor truck.

What needs to be encouraged here is the accumulation of private capital and the investment of that private capital in American enterprise. Only by such means is it possible to maintain and increase American industry, support our standard of living and build greater and newer industries here in this country.

'What's Your Answer To This One?'

The Pennsylvania Story

Distaff Help

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Pennsylvania Democrats are counting heavily this year on an unusual assist from the distaff side to help put their ticket across in November.

Whether they are whistling in the dark remains to be seen. Party stalwarts don't believe so, however. Regardless of the outcome, it is an interesting and perhaps significant point of speculation. Both parties in recent years have been prone to place increasing emphasis on the pots and pans department.

Both parties have conceded—reluctantly in some instances—that the female vote has been growing in importance. Both parties did something about it six years ago when for the first time each slated a woman for a spot on the statewide ticket.

In 1954 Republicans advanced Mrs. Gaynelle Dixon, of Butler County for the post of Secretary of Internal Affairs. Democrats named Miss Genevieve Blatt as their candidate.

As the record now shows, Democrats emerged the victor in that fracas — and Miss Blatt moved into office as the first woman to serve as secretary of internal affairs, and also of course the first woman in Pennsylvania history to be elected to statewide office.

Since that time the fortunes of the distaff side in Pennsylvania politics have taken a turn for the better — especially for Democrats. Miss Blatt (as well as Democrats in general) has left few stones unturned in letting it be known that her party has done something more than simply talk about women in politics— with herself as the "walking evidence."

The simple fact cannot be whisked under the rug. It was no coincidence that slate-making Democrats in 1958 again slated the affable, poised and graceful Secretary of Internal Affairs for the post. That she continues in office attests to her success at the polls that year.

On the other hand, Republicans after their sorry venture in 1954 which saw equally gracious Mrs. Dixon pulled down to defeat with the rest of the GOP ticket, have completely sidestepped any female slating on the statewide level ever since then.

In a close race the decision may prove fateful. The November presidential contest may be just that close, a possibility pointed up almost daily around Capitol Hill.

The female vote may hold the answer in the final analysis — most certainly a hand-raised-in-horror thought to many a balding party old pro. Pennsylvania donkey riders are leaving few stones unturned in their determined effort to capitalize on this possibility.

Look to the candidate schedule of Democrats each week—and Miss Blatt is invariably found doing her lion's share in the hustings, the tea rooms, on front porches or on a soap box on the village green.

It is true Democrats have succeeded in massing the 1954 GOP registration edge of nearly one million — and while undoubtedly a notable piece of work, it still means that some of the swing in the direction of the ticket if donkey riders hope to win next month.

The role accorded women by and more spectacularly in slate-making, is a painfully convincing show Republicans are finding hard to overcome. To the women throughout the state regardless of party affiliations, Internal Affairs Secretary Gen. Blatt today undeniably stands out as something like a beacon on a foggy night!

Schoonover, who will be best remembered for his all-time TDS that beat East Stroudsburg in 1957 and tied the Cavaliers in 1959 (89 and 96 yards respectively) led off a 53-yard TD scamper against the Little Middles in the game's longest run of the day.

Veteran's Guide

Q. I am a Korea veteran, insured under VA's new-type low-cost term insurance, which cannot be renewed after my 50th birthday. Does this also mean age 50 is my deadline for converting my term insurance to one of VA's permanent plans?

A. Not necessarily. You can not renew your term policy after age 50. However, if you renew in the five year period which includes your 50th birthday you can convert during that time. As an example, if you renewed for five years at age 48, you could convert to a permanent plan any time up to age 53.

Q. Is it possible to attend school less than half-time under the War Orphans Education program?

A. No. War Orphans payments may not be made to a student attending school less than half-time.

The Allen-Scott Report

Peacemaker Role

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President Eisenhower is trying to bring Israel and the Arab countries together for peace talks, but the results have been discouraging so far.

Premier Ben-Gurion readily agreed to such discussions. But President Gamal Nasser not only flatly refused, but told the President, "Israel will always remain a barrier to any rapprochement between your country and mine."

The United Arab Republic ruler said that during this recent conference with the President at the United Nations. It was the President's hope Nasser could be persuaded to meet with Ben-Gurion, and this would be announced on a designated date.

The President had in mind sometime around November 1. That was acceptable to Ben-Gurion, who had been sounded out on the matter by the State Department.

But these plans were dashed by Nasser's truculent recalcitrance.

The President still feels he can make some headway in using his "good offices" to mediate between Israel and the Arabs. Vice President Nixon is credited as also holding that view.

But State Department authorities are privately much less hopeful.

Meanwhile, Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has learned of this backstage endeavor and is making inquiries regarding it.

He particularly wants to know "how and why this was undertaken at this time."

Fulbright stresses that he strongly favors such peace negotiations, and would heartily support them. But, at the same time, he is curious why no special effort along this line was made before.

Bluntly he points out that the presidential campaign is now in full stride, and "a move of this kind would undoubtedly be good politics."

What They Said — Nasser opened the way for the President to make his meditation offer.

The UAR ruler started their talk by warmly thanking the President for "helping us when we were attacked in 1956 (in the so-called Suez crisis)."

The President replied that he is always ready and eager to avoid war and halt aggression, and above all to "mediate just settlements of differences." From this generalization, the President became specific.

"I am ready to offer my good offices," he told Nasser, "to you and Premier Ben-Gurion to mediate your disputes. I think the time has come for that. All your people would benefit from peace. Your countries could devote the money and energy you are now expending on weapons to peaceful developments of every kind: industry, education, agriculture, health, science."

Nasser, obviously surprised, was silent for a few moments, then vigorously shook his head. "I cordially reciprocate your desire to see a settlement reached in the Middle East," he replied, "but it's out of the question for me to meet with the man who ordered his armies to march against my people. I refuse to do that."

Instead, Nasser argued the President should use his influence to induce Israel to "accept the original partition agreement"—which would considerably reduce its territory.

This was countered by the President with the suggestion that a meeting be held to consider only the question of stopping the flow of arms to the Middle East.

Again Nasser balked, contending, "This would leave my country at a disadvantage to Israel." The U. S. sale of arms to Israel in previous years, he declared, "has not been forgotten by my people, and is a constant detriment to good relations between your country and mine."

The U. S. Israel purchased in the U. S., the President pointed out, were entirely of a defensive nature and could not have been used for aggression.

"You were a great general," retorted Nasser, "and you know as well as I do that there are no such things as defensive and offensive weapons. Weapons are weapons, and they can be used for any purpose you want to put them to."

Getting Together — Jordan and Iraq are taking another step in establishing amicable relations — bitterly strained since Iraq's bloody revolution and the slaying of its youthful King. The two countries are resuming telephone and radio communications. Recently, quiet negotiations were opened between them to renew diplomatic relations.

During a recent stormy session of the UN General Assembly, Assistant Secretary of State Francis Wilcox was mistaken by a Communist delegate for Senator Wayne Morse (D., Ore.) of the alternate U. S. delegates. In the midst of a caustic speech by Wilcox, the Red delegate shouted at him, "We don't have to put up with that sort of talk. This isn't the U. S. Senate." Now Wilcox's State Department colleagues are jokingly calling him, "Senator Wilcox."

Just Between Us

It's amazing how many women do look well in the new hats. Quite a few more of them blossomed forth at the County Federation meeting yesterday. The only difficulty is that it's sometimes a little difficult to recognize people under hats that hide their hair and feathers that dangle.

It was sort of restful to get away from political discussions, which at this stage of the game seem to involve the emotions more than the intellect and into the non-controversial realm of woman's club activities. At least at this meeting, they were no controversial although there have been intra-club feuds which would make the political campaigns sound like sweetness and light.

Speaking of controversy, I wonder how the Ramsey PTA will make out with their panel tonight on "Are Our Children Over-Organized?" It's a little early in the year for the subject to have come up generally. Usually by March, you'll find the women ruffling their feathers and declaring that never, never, never again will they get so involved in so many organizations.

There have been times when I've wondered about values myself. In the days when I had a home to minister to, there were times when I found myself going to a lecture on "The American Home" while the dust piled up in mine; to a PTA meeting on "How Parents Can Help with Homework" in such a hurry that there wasn't even a space cleared for my own children to do theirs; to a Children's Aid meeting that lasted so long that my children were running the streets waiting for me.

It should be interesting: an organization investigating over-organization. Everybody admits we're over-organized, but every organization considers itself the one vital organization. And from many of the reports that cross my desk, they prove it.

Bangor Club Women Guests At Portland

Portland — The Portland Women's Club entertained 20 members of the Bangor Club at their meeting this week. Mrs. Raymond Beck welcomed the guests with Mrs. Dorothy Holliday, president of the Bangor Club, responding.

Miss Gail Teel, Bangor, played several marimba solos, accompanied by Mrs. William Stine. Miss Fernie Slifles, instructor in the Charm School of Orrs, Easton, spoke on "Fashions and Beauty Hints."

Welcomed as new members were Mrs. Sherman LaBar, Mrs. Fred Gardner, Mrs. Eugene Ambrusch and Mrs. Peter Tozzi and Mrs. Bernard Oliver were reinstated. The club was invited to the Nazareth Senior Club's "Holiday Bazaar" on November 4 at 10 a.m.

The "Chest Mobile" will be in Portland at the Bank Corner on November 3 from 5 to 8 p.m. The ways and means committee asked each member to bring a small gift to the November meeting to be used as a prize for the card party to be held November 29 in the club rooms.

The club rooms themselves have had something added. Attention was called to a painting presented to them by Mrs. Charles Stauffer of Easton in memory of Mrs. John Herring, a past president. Mrs. Herring was a former resident of Portland and is now living in Florida, and the painting is one she herself painted.

It was also announced that the club had received two citations: one for contributions to care and the other the Community Achievement Award for 1958-60 in the contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Hostesses were Miss Margaret Stine, chairman; Mrs. Clifford Sebring, Mrs. Raymond Scott, Mrs. Ernest Courtney, Mrs. Horace Rustling and Mrs. James Bartman.

Clubwomen Of County Compare Notes On Projects, Activities For Winter

The Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs, representing 449 members, held its Fall meeting yesterday in Stroudsburg comparing notes for coming activities and meeting for discussion in six groups, representing various departments.

From the education discussion group came a motion, passed by the federation, approving the encouragement of students to enter the field of education and endorsing the work of the Future Teachers Club at the secondary as well as college level.

Letters will be sent to high school principals in the county requesting them to consider the establishment of such clubs within their respective schools.

The federation's own educational project was represented in the person of Miss Carol Hilyard, the federation's first scholarship girl, who is now a senior at East Stroudsburg State College.

Mrs. Samuel O. Wells, III, president of the state federation, in introducing Miss Hilyard called attention to her record. Recently elected president of the Women's Executive Council, former president of the Women Day Students, Miss Hilyard also has an excellent academic record and of community service including serving as Sunday school pianist, and as a volunteer in the recreational program for Retarded Children. She is also one of the candidates for

Miss Hilyard thanked the federation and its members for helping to make college possible for her.

The Stroudsburg Woman's Club of which Mrs. William A. Hannas is president, was host at the meeting which began at 2 o'clock in the Stroud Community House when Miss Winifred I. Hammer, vice president of the Northeast District of the state federation was guest speaker.

At the dinner at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Mrs. Russell Clements, president of the state federation was guest speaker. Connie Beers Pentz presented the entertainment, a dramatic presentation with Miss Helen Jolisek as her accompanist.

Decorations were cornucopias filled with Fall flowers which in place cards and name cards of autumn leaves.

In the afternoon reports from individual clubs, the Woman's Club of Stroudsburg, with 181 members announced their programs for the year and that they had collected $37 for Meals for Millions at their opening luncheon.

The Stroud Community Club, now in its seventh year, announced its work for establishing a protected workshop for the mental retarded and projects including a square dance, and a rummage sale. They have 37 members.

The Barrett Community Club of 48 members reported a successful carnival and fashion show and on a club trip to New York. Their major project is the pre-school center, now in its seventh year, using volunteer workers from the club.

The Junior Woman's Club of 102 members has six project teams. They reported on their success during Sidewalk Days and the party at the County Home.

The Progressive Woman's Club of 61 members reported on the value of its Book Group and its support of the West End Ambulance Fund.

Mrs. Edward C. Hess, public affairs chairman, reported on the course on Juvenile Delinquency now being conducted each Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Court House. Members from the Woman's Club of Stroudsburg and from the Progressive Woman's Club have been attending. She urged other clubs to send representatives to the meetings which are open to the public.

In her president's message, Mrs. Clements stressed five facts of club life: Leadership through well-informed officers; sound financing through good budgets; programs on timely and challenging subjects; community interest as a group; and attracting as audience lonely women and newcomers.

The national federation furnishes the light; the state federation the walls, but the individual clubs provide the foundation for the edifice of women's clubs, she said.

Mrs. Gilbert Scharf, who with Mrs. Lillian Acker, of Stroudsburg, will attend the 35th Girl Scout Convention in St. Louis, Missouri, in November, brought out some of the issues to be voted upon to get the comments and viewpoints of her leaders.

Mrs. R. D. Donladson, who recently returned from visiting her daughter in Anchorage, Alaska, told of attending Girl Scout meetings in that area and of being a guest at their Camp Togowoods.

The next Neighborhood Meeting will be held November 8.

Mountain Neighborhood Meeting

Seotrun — A large attendance of leaders, co-leaders and committee women of the Girl Scouts attended the first Fall meeting of the Mountain Neighborhood Assn. at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Gilbert Scharf.

The neighborhood heard a report from Mrs. Donald Brown of the development committee on council coverage. Leaders were given their Girl Scout Birthday Years charts to be used to keep a record of troop activities and programs for the next two years, preceding the 100th birthday of Juliette Low and 50 years of Scouting.

Mrs. Gilbert Scharf, who with Mrs. Lillian Acker, of Stroudsburg, will attend the 35th Girl Scout Convention in St. Louis, Missouri, in November, brought out some of the issues to be voted upon to get the comments and viewpoints of her leaders.

Harvest Home Gifts

Delaware Water Gap — Members of the Delaware Water Gap Methodist Church are asked to bring their gifts for the annual Harvest Home service to the church on Saturday afternoon. The Harvest Home service will be held on Sunday.

Group To Study Effects Of Election Abroad

Coming just before the election, the subject of "The Effect of the US Elections on International Affairs" has been chosen by the International Relations Study Group for the subject of their first meeting to be held on Wednesday night at 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Wimer, Bartonsville.

Dr. LeRoy Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, will be the speaker. The International Relations study group is sponsored by the American Assn. of University Women but is open to all interested men and women.

They are all invited to attend the first meeting of the new year. The Wimer home may be reached by turning West from Route 611 at the blinker light in Bartonsville to the cobblestone house on the right four tenths of a mile from the intersection.

Open School Week Listed For St. John's

Final plans have been made for Open School Week at St. John's Lutheran Sunday School. Letters of invitation have been sent by the teachers of the Junior, Intermediate, Primary, Kindergarten and Nursery Departments to the parents of their students. This is a brand new program for St. John's and the officers of the Sunday School are preparing for a large turnout of interested parents.

The purpose of the program is to help parents understand more fully the work being done by their Church School and to give both parents and teachers alike a chance to discuss ways in which they can cooperate to establish an even better Sunday School program.

Tonight, Wednesday, October 26, parents and teachers will meet in the main Sunday School department at 7:30 p.m. After opening devotions led by Rev. Charles Ruloff, pastor of St. John's, Richard Hammond, superintendent of the Sunday School will greet the parents and introduce the officers of the school. The film that will follow is an unusually fine one. It is one of a television series entitled "This Is The Life" which received many fine reviews. After the film, the meeting will break up into departmental meetings at which time parents will become better acquainted with the work of each department. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

A nursery for young children will be supervised by Miss Susan Kunkle and Miss Katherine Mikels. On Sunday morning, October 30, during the regular Sunday School hour parents will have an opportunity to observe the Sunday School in action. The parents will meet in the church and participate in the opening services of the Adult Sunday School Department. Mrs. Parke Kunkle, Mrs. Floyd Fetherman, Mrs. John Baylor, Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Mrs. Lester Bowers will then serve as ushers, escorting the parents through the various Sunday School departments.

The committee in charge of planning the Open School Week are Mrs. Richard Lindroth, chairman, Mrs. Donald Cramer, Mrs. George Hiller and Mrs. Howard Keiper Jr.

Lehman Home Ec Group Meets

Bushkill — The Home Extension group of Lehman Township have started their meetings of the Fall season. The group will meet every Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph Kutay.

At present the group's working on furniture refinishing, rush bottoms, chair caning and upholstery. In December the group will decide on other projects they are interested in.

Anyone desiring to join the group either contact Mrs. Joseph Kutay at LU 8-6792 or come to a meeting at her home. There is no charge for these courses only individual expenses for their own material.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses have been applied for from N. Henry Fenner, clerk of orphans' court by Robert H. Rohner and Nancy Jean Bunnell, both of Bushkill, and Charles H. Barnes, Herrick Center, Pa., and Carolyn Rose Warner, Stroudsburg.

THINKING IT OVER...

Sitting here at my desk on Friday, while the store is teeming with October Sale customers, including hundreds of young people released from school by County Institute, it occurs to me that I am really not ready to begin another week until I knot the stray ends of the current one past all unraveling. There are things I wish to remember...

I shall always remember the humility of Elizabeth Martin, our county's probation officer, and supervisor of the institutional district, when at the request of the Business and Professional Women's Club I telephoned her about a newspaper article. Elizabeth was pleased, I am sure, that the club named her "Woman of the Month" ... everyone enjoys recognition. But she was skittish about publicity. "Oh no, no," she fidgeted. "Nothing like that..." Then, when I coaxed, "Well... there really isn't too much I'd care to say. Just what would you like to know?"

My respect for Elizabeth Martin, both as a parent and citizen of the community, is sincere. My admiration for her is warm and real... and I glory in her dry sense of humor which you discover, rather surprisingly, after frequent contact with her. I say "rather" surprisingly, for Elizabeth is always quietly businesslike in manner and appearance. One doesn't guess that her dignity is sometimes a cover-up for the desire to chuckle at the wrong time, or that she writes humorous verse when her schedule permits.

Frankly, I am almost afraid to write about her, fearing that if I am too complimentary, she won't be speaking next time we meet. She shies from praise, yet those of us who saw her face at the meeting last Thursday evening know how touched she was by the beautiful bouquet from her colleagues at the Court House. She smiled proudly too, as she told me of the bouquet sent to her home by Judge Davis and her immediate associates.

As a parent, rearing a family single-handed, I have, on frequent occasions, consulted with Elizabeth and with the boys' probation officer, Henry McCool. I think they are both splendid... very understanding of young people, and very much aware of the problems parents face. Judge Davis himself is an extremely wise and warm-hearted man... our policemen, attorneys, and District Attorney are also exceedingly helpful. I fully agree with Miss Martin when she says children should always be taught that any representatives of the courts and law enforcement are among their finest friends. One cannot be born with the wisdom of Solomon... but most of us can profit from the counsel of those who know the answers that evade us.

All too frequently citations are handed out indiscriminately, while the most deserving persons are overlooked. That is why I am pleased Elizabeth Martin was honored by our "Beeps." She is kindly, conscientious, and vital... a woman who keeps abreast of the times by continuing to take courses in juvenile delinquency. Personally, I doubt that there is anything new on the subject anyone could teach her!

Hunting Prospects Good

HUNTING prospects for the immediate future is considered good by the Pennsylvania Game Commission in what is believed the best information available to the commission.

The commission says that small game in the state was in good supply last year. The hunting prospects for this year are compared with that of 1959. The small game season opens Saturday.

A statewide survey was made early this month by the game protectors and other persons qualified to form opinions on the status of game birds and animals native to the state. The conclusions are listed below.

Overall, hunting in Pocono counties of Monroe, Pike, and Carbon, and in adjacent counties of Luzerne and Sullivan, is considered good, the commission said.

(Reluctant estimates are sometimes given by game protectors for their respective districts because they feel, like so many times before, the game population levels shift drastically in the two weeks prior to the start of the season.)

In farm game, cottontail rabbits are generally estimated at 10 to 20 per cent more than last year, good to excellent in Carbon, good in Monroe, especially in southern half.

Other animals: Kingneck Pheasants — In better range, an increase of 10 to 20 per cent is noted. Carbon and Monroe: In the main, stocked birds, little reproduction, however. Southern Monroe and southern Luzerne: Improved.

Bobwhite Quail — Still not generally abundant, but in better range an increase of 5 to 220 per cent.

Grouse—An encouraging overall increase. Up in Pike, slightly

Dear Abby

Add Your Own Praise

Dear Abby: I rent a room to a woman whose husband is doing time. She works nights in a cafe and I will say this for her — she is decent and is loyal to her man. There is one thing wrong with her, Abby. She talks about her husband like he was away at Harvard. She is forever bragging about how "he is there only because he took the blame for someone else" and "his term was five years but he is getting out sooner for good behavior." I know she deserves a pat on the back, but she is getting on our nerves with all her bragging. How can we quiet her down in a polite way?

NERVES ON EDGE

Dear Nerves: If she wants to "pat herself on the back" let her. And add your praise.

If there were more women like your roomer, there would be fewer "repeaters." A convict needs to know he has someone who loves him to come home to.

Dear Abby: My problem is a vulgar husband. All summer he mowed the lawn in his swimming trunks. His excuse was he wanted to get a tan. I said it bordered on indecency. He said he was on his own property and was breaking no laws. I asked, "What would the neighbors think if I went out in the front yard attired like that?"

He replied, "They'd probably think I married you for your money." How do you top a comedian like that?

GRACE

Dear Grace: Why try?

Dear Abby: I wish to supplement your answer to "hurt hostess" concerning her refusal to accept a gift-wrapped can of coffee. It's time people realized that some folks do not always want to be on the receiving end. I know a few people who want to do all the giving and buying and never any taking. As a result I avoid them because they embarrass and obligate me. I can pay my own way and want to reciprocate but am deprived of this pleasure. Chronic givers must have some sort of inferiority complex that compels them to "buy" their way. Please pass the word on to others who insist on giving and refuse to accept.

JOHN J.

Dear Abby: Is it proper, when eating in a restaurant, to ask for a paper bag to take home the meat one has not finished eating? This is not for the dog, you understand.

CONSERVATIVE

Dear Conservative: It's proper, intelligent and acceptable.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want To Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Distribution Of Seedlings

STARTING with the Spring of 1961 seedlings produced by the Department will no longer be shipped by Railway Express. Seedlings will be baled and transported by department forces to a distribution point in the county in which the seedlings are going to be planted.

In the case of the Delaware District (Pike, Monroe and Northampton counties) the distribution points are as follows:

Pike County — Pennsylvania Department of Highways garage, Milford.

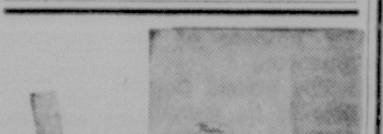

Monroe County — Pennsylvania Department of Highways Garage, located along route 611 north of Stroudsburg.

Northampton County — Pennsylvania Department of Highways garage, Easton.

Prospective planters will pick up their seedlings at one of the above locations depending in which county the seedlings will be planted. Planters will be notified before shipment when to pick up their seedlings.

Seedling Prices

The price of the seedlings and multiflora rose will be at the rate of $7 per thousand which includes delivery charge and must be paid by check or money

ALLEN FUNT'S "Candid Camera" series is the biggest hit of the new season, according to the rating charts. In its third week it outpointed its veteran Sunday night opponent, the Loretta Young Show, 30.3 to 12.1. . . Jimmy Durante, Groucho Marx, George Burns and Buddy Hackett will get $10,000 each for ad libbing on a 60-minute NBC special on Dec. 6.

Casey Stengel, former Yankee manager, as well as Hal Smith and Elroy Face, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will be Perry Como's special guests on his Nov. 2 show. . . "Junior Miss," an old time radio show and also a movie, may be an upcoming TV series.

Dick Clark visits the California home of singer Johnny Mathis as a special portion of "American Bandstand," which is seen from 4 to 5:30 this afternoon on ch. 6 and 7. . . Dan Duray guests with stars John Smith and Robert Fuller on the "Laramie" series at 7:30 tonight on ch. 3 and 4, and portrays a man whom Slim and Jess save from an Indian attack.

Robert Young, Jane Wyatt, Billy Gray and Elinor Donahue star on "Father Knows Best" at 8 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10, when Bud and his friend Kippy find after-school jobs in the circulation department of a local newspaper.

Chuck Connors stars as "The Rifleman" at 8 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7, when, angered at the brutal beating of his friend, Marshal Torrence, by a fugitive the old marshal had arrested, Lucas McCain trails the suspect to a mountain mining town.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Republican nominee for President, makes a nationwide speech at 9 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10. . . Rip Torn stars on the

Woman, 20, Exonerated

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A Lancaster County coroner's jury has exonerated 20-year-old Mrs. Jacqueline A. Weaver in the rifle slaying of her husband.

James Weaver, 22, was killed 10 days ago in the couple's apartment. Mrs. Weaver told the jury she was handing her husband a hunting rifle to be cleaned when it accidentally discharged. She said she didn't know the gun was loaded.

The jury of four men and two women returned a verdict of accidental death. Charges of involuntary manslaughter against Mrs. Weaver were dropped.

"Thriller" drama at 9 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4 as a man who inherits a haunted house from his brother, but with one proviso—that he sleep there for a night.

James Mason stars in a 60-minute dramatization of "John Brown's Raid" as an NBC special at 10 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4.

John Newland is host for "Alcoa Presents" at 10 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7, and tells the story of what happens to an intelligent career woman who believes that, because she desired to see people dead, she was responsible for their demise.

Work Underway On Postoffice

NEWFOUNDLAND—Ground-breaking for the new postoffice building took place recently, and work is progressing with completion due on January 31, 1961.

However, Postmaster C. L. Bessinger, who is familiar with Pocono Mountain weather, has noted that completion is expected in early Winter, "weather permitting."

The postoffice will provide 1200 feet of interior space, an outdoor loading platform, and ample hand-surfaced space for parking and truck maneuvering. Specifications call for new, modern lighting and equipment, including a low, open, patron-service counter.

G-D-S Fair Unit To Meet

Greene-Dreher-Sterling Community Fair Association will hold its annual meeting at 8:30 a.m. on Wednesday, October 26, at Southern Wayne Joint School.

Highlights of the session will include election of officers and a reading of the financial report of the 1960 fair. Members are urged to be present.

The Daily Investor

Stockholders' Friend

By William A. Doyle
Q. Is there such a thing as a stockholders' organization that represents stockholders of any or all companies. It is my thought that such an organization, if there is one, should sit in on all labor-management discussions to protect the interests of stockholders.

A. There are a number of stockholders' organizations. But none do what you have in mind. Mostly, these organizations devote their time to education and various other projects — including lobbying on the national and state levels.

It should be made clear that there is nothing wrong with lobbying for good causes. If nobody lobbied on behalf of investors, we could really get clobbered by misguided lawgivers.

But sitting in on labor union contract negotiations and other talks between company managements and union representatives can hardly be considered a function of stockholder organizations.

Stockholders, as owners of a company, elect the board of directors of the company. The directors hire the top executives of the company.

The directors and top officials of the company either handle the negotiations with labor unions themselves or name one person or a "management team" to do that chore.

In any case, the management people are representing stockholders when they meet with union people. The management people's motives are the stockholders' motives. They are the stockholders' representatives at the bargain table.

Q. We own some U. S. Treasury notes and receive dividend checks twice a year. How much of the dividends should we report on our income tax?

A. You don't receive dividends. You receive interest. Dividends are paid on stocks. Interest is paid on debt securities. U. S. Treasury notes are debt securities, just as U. S. Treasury bonds, U. S. savings bonds, and U. S. Treasury discount bills are debt securities.

You must report all interest you receive as ordinary income for Federal income tax purposes. It is fully taxable.

Q. Am I supposed to pay income taxes on the dividends I receive on my life insurance policies?

A. Normally, the dividends you receive on your insurance policies are considered a return of the premiums you have paid. So, such "dividends" are not subject to a Federal tax bite.

Q. Is it possible to take the New York Stock Exchange examination to become a registered representative, if I do not work for a brokerage firm?

A. No. In order to take that test you must be employed by a brokerage firm which is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. Actually, a great deal of time and training goes into the making of a registered representative (customer's man). Passing the examination is only one part of the whole process.
